

I am eager to work in legislative offices because I see it as an opportunity to learn how laws are shaped, debated, and put into place. I believe seeing the day-to-day work of legislators will help me understand the policy process beyond just the classroom. I believe I will gain insight into the real world of lawmaking. I believe this experience would prepare me for the challenges of law school and give me a foundation for my probable future career as an attorney. I do not have much experience in real world legislation, which is what I am trying to find. I like stating my opinions and believe I am a good critical thinker. I am good at considering all viewpoints before I formulate an opinion which I believe is a good characteristic to have in this field.